STUART D. LOGAN JOINS LIPSON, NEILSON, COLE, SELTZER & GARIN AS SHAREHOLDER

BLOOMFIELD HILLS – Stuart D. Logan has joined Lipson, Neilson, Cole, Seltzer & Garin, P.C. law firm, as a shareholder in their Bloomfield Hills office.

Logan, who begins work with Lipson Neilson after more than 27 years with Dykema Gossett, will help lead the firm’s business transactional and securities practice, while also concentrating on corporate mergers and acquisitions.

Throughout his career, Mr. Logan has served in leadership roles in the merger, acquisition or disposition of scores of businesses, ranging from well-capitalized public companies, to syndicated investment funds, to family-owned operations. Those and other undertakings have often entailed complex financing transactions in amounts ranging from several thousand dollars to several hundred million dollars.

“Stuart Logan’s presence at Lipson Neilson will enable the firm to expand its client offerings in a number of areas, specifically in the business transactional, M & A and securities practices that he has excelled in throughout his career,” said Lipson Neilson managing partner, Jeffrey Neilson. “He comes to us with a tremendous reputation with clients and in the business community and we are extremely happy that Stuart has chosen Lipson Neilson as the firm with which he feels most comfortable in continuing his outstanding legal career.”

Because over the years a number of his clients and a number of the relevant counter parties have resided outside the United States, Mr. Logan has also proficiently handled a number of multinational transactions. He has also, throughout his career, worked with clients to establish and plan the operational, financial and tax strategy of nearly one thousand corporations, partnerships and limited liability companies.

Mr. Logan earned his J.D. and undergraduate degrees from the University of Michigan and serves on the Executive Committee of Michigan's second-largest Conservative Jewish congregation, Adat Shalom Synagogue, where he regularly devotes his time in support of community and charitable endeavors.
